Margaret D. Jacobs : Engendered Encounters: Feminism and Pueblo Cultures, 1879-1934 (Women in the West) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Engendered Encounters: Feminism and Pueblo Cultures, 1879-1934 (Women in the West):

In this interdisciplinary study of gender, cross-cultural encounters, and federal Indian policy, Margaret D. Jacobs explores the changing relationship between Anglo-American women and Pueblo Indians before and after the turn of the century. During the late nineteenth century, the Pueblos were often characterized by women reformers as barbaric and needing to be "uplifted" into civilization. By the 1920s, however, the Pueblos were widely admired by activist Anglo-American women, who challenged assimilation policies and worked hard to protect the Pueblos "traditional" way of life.

"Irony and white female ethnocentrism dominate this excellent gender study."Choice
