Politics made poeticBy DouginNCThis short treatise is written with beauty of word and carefulness of thought, from unprecedented experience and virgin love of country. Lyrical are these words, expansive yet poetic all the same. The actions suggested or implored beseech one country, under God, to realize the ambitions and potential inherent in an infant nation. How amazed would be Geo Washington, though saddened so greatly by the Civil War and politics of late, to see what has been wrought. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Support for the principles of Washington's Address should be required by all who serve in governing the US. By Jaki How does one review Washington? I cannot be comfortable with owning people, and I know he freed his slaves when he died, but I regret this horrible blot on his character, even as I am astounded by the wisdom of his thoughts on the future of America. I wish he'd seen and written on stepping back from the precipice on which we now find ourselves. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Richard W. Shevlinit set our foreign policy.

George Washington delivers his final speech as President of the United States and warns the American people of the dangers of foreign alliances and political parties.

From the Inside Flap George Washington's famous address encapsulates a view of the Union, the Constitution, and good citizenship that is an important part of American political thought today. About the Author 1st President of the United States of America
