This is one I will be reading again to help keep right perspective in my Christian walk. It is refreshing how concisely he puts things. This book provides great insight into walking victoriously with Christ. Definitely keeping in my resource library.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Didn't know life could be this awesome!By ScottVery well written. Understandable so that you don't need a Master's degree in theology. Short and readable but makes you want to think about it for awhile. Powerful accountability to your walk with God and daily minute by minute relationship with Him. Will change the way you do the Christian life! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Highly recommend. By RickLove this book. Somehow I missed it over all my years. Really full of great truths for one's relationship with God and others.

Roy Hession was a 20th century British evangelist and author. His post World War II work is well known especially among young people. In 1950 Roy and his wife Revel published their first book The Calvary Road. The nature of religious revival is discussed as well as the prerequisites and consequences of the activity of God in the heart of man. According to Hession, man can learn how Jesus can fill you with His Spirit through brokenness, repentance and confession.

About the Author Roy Hession (1908-1992) was a British evangelist and author. Hession was born in London in 1908. He was educated at Aldenham School where his introduction to religion led him to expect "anything but boredom" from God. He accepted Jesus in 1926 while on a Christian holiday camp, largely through the witness of a cousin who was a navy officer. After working for Barings, the merchant bank, for ten years, he committed himself to fulltime preaching and became one of the most effective Christian evangelists in post-World War II Britain, especially among young people. His understanding of the Christian life underwent a radical change in 1947 following a conference that he had arranged to which he invited members of the East Africa Revival Movement. He was very much influenced by their strong emphasis on a personal implementation of the basics of the Christian faith, in particular the healing powers of openness and repentance. His preaching subsequently incorporated these new insights. This brought criticism because of its introspective element, from some he had previously worked with, but it was much appreciated by many Christians on both sides of the Atlantic. In the years that follow Roy, together with Dr. Joe Church, the leader of a group of missionaries from East Africa, ministered to many churches and conferences in Europe, Brazil, Indonesia, North America and Africa. He was also involved for more than forty years in organising Christian holiday conferences for family groups at Abergele, Clevedon and Southwold in the United Kingdom. In 1967 he lost his first wife, Revel, in a tragic road accident. He later married Pamela who had worked as a missionary in East Africa. Roy Hession died in 1992 but he is remembered for his infectious enthusiasm and his humor, but above all for his unwavering stand on the principles of repentance and grace that had become so precious to him.
